

The Manning Times.

Publishes All County and Town Official Advertisements.

MANNING, S. C., APRIL 15, 1914

RUTH CHAPTER, No. 40.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS
Regular Meeting, Second Monday in Each Month.
FRED LEBERNE
Secretary.

Manning Chapter, No. 19
"Order of Eastern Star"
Regular Meeting, First Tuesday in each month.
(Mrs.) W. C. DAVIS, W. M.
Miss LUCY JOHNSON, Sec.

Lemons,

15c.

Dozen.

Fancy full juicy fruit—the same kind you've been paying 25c. for.

Peaches,

10c.

Pound.

Clean, bright, fancy California. Excellent flavor, and very healthy. There is no better bargain to be had than these delicious Peaches

Manning Grocery Co.

Read the ad. of E. C. Gross, the Watkins man.

We call special attention to the big ad. of the Pastime.

The Manning Shrimpers will meet at the Masonic hall this evening at 7:00 o'clock.

Be sure and get the first picture of "Our Mutual Girl" at The Pastime next Monday.

Mrs. J. P. Hardy who has been in the infirmary in Charleston for an operation has returned to her home at New Zion.

Mr. W. I. Hudnall, Jr., of the United States Artillery service, is at home on a visit to his parents Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Hudnall.

Field day in Manning next Friday is going to be a great event, and everybody will be here who can possibly get away from home.

There will be preaching at Barrow school building Sunday April 19th, at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. J. W. Trulluck. The public are cordially invited.

The Home Lake fishing club, is called to meet in the grand jury room in the court house next Saturday, 18th, at 10 o'clock, a. m. W. M. Plowden.

Died yesterday at her home in Henderson, S. C. Mrs. Nora Anderson. The deceased is the aunt of Mrs. C. K. Harvin, and visited Manning three summers ago.

The civic league will meet tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock to elect delegates to the annual meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs. A good attendance is desired.

By reason of unavoidable circumstances, the visit of Dr. Henry N. Snyder to Manning has been postponed from next Sunday to a later date. This treat is yet in store for the people of Manning.

Do not forget that the 25th day of this month which falls on Saturday is the time for the reorganization of the Democratic clubs throughout the county, at which delegates to the county convention are to be chosen.

Mr. G. P. Scarborough who has been at Miami, Fla., for his health returned to Manning accompanied by Mrs. Scarborough last Friday night. Mrs. Scarborough is considerably improved. He is with his daughter Mrs. R. E. Harlee.

Cards have been issued for the marriage of Mr. Charles Alexander Harvin, and Mrs. Alethea Manigault Davis, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson M. Davis of Summerton. The ceremony will take place at home Thursday evening April 23rd.

"I congratulate you old top, you sure did make a fine run, the people recognize your ability and fitness, and I am certainly glad you won." But you did not vote for me nor my friends who with me were regarded as undesirable. Well, then, do you think it is going to rain? Good evening.

A six year old daughter of Mr. J. E. Lowder, near Bloomville, was bitten by a dog last Monday, Dr. A. S. Todd was called to the child and on his advice the dog's head was sent to the State Board of Health for examination. The dog was shot and the child received a telegram from Columbia pronouncing the dog bitten severely, and it is hoped it will not be infected.

St. Peter's lodge of Masons has decided to begin to lay aside a fund for the purpose of building a temple, and at the last regular meeting $300 was voted to be placed in a local savings bank, The Home Bank & Trust Company at interest as the foundation for a building fund. It is hoped that before long St. Peter's will have an up-to-date temple of its own that will be a comfort to its membership, and an ornament to our town.

There will be an entertainment at Aloulu on the evenings of April 16th, and 17th at 8:30 o'clock for the benefit of the school. General admission for very long St. Peter's tickets 10c. reserved seats 35c. The proceeds go to the local school and the public is cordially invited to attend. Young folks of Manning, the moon will shine unusually bright on these two evenings, and the distance is about right for the opportunity to discuss private affairs. A hint to the wise is sufficient.

Mr. H. F. Stack of Pinewood, was in Manning yesterday and he like all of the citizens of that community was enthusiastic about the wonderful work done at Pinewood by Evangelist McLeoden. Mr. Stack says and too, that is the general report from Pinewood, liquor drinking, gambling and the other vices have been eliminated, not through official oppression, but through persuasion, love and kindness. We congratulate Pinewood on having the glorious light shed upon its community.

ARANT'S AD. is worth five cents! Save it.

It is no easy matter to acquire the degree of M. D. Ph.D. L. D. or D. D. but there are other degrees that are being daily conferred without money and without pain. These free degrees become effective temporarily, but when they do begin to wear, the nakedness they expose is fearful to behold.

The store of J. T. Brogren, near the Summer line in Clarendon in Sammy Swamp town, was destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning, and everything went up in smoke. Mr. Brogren carried quite a large stock of goods for a country store about $3,000 or $4,000, on which he had insurance to the amount of $2,100, also $275 on building, and $125 on fixtures. Mr. Brogren does a splendid business, a successful merchant, and a great help to his community. He will rebuild immediately.

Mention was made last week of the deprecation on the plantation of Mr. R. H. Davis Tuesday night of last week by a negro by the name of James Riley who committed a felonious assault upon his mother-in-law, and then stole a mule from Mr. Davis' stables. The negro was traced by Mr. Davis and Deputy Thames to Rimini, and near the Santee bridge the negro was found but the negro had evidently crossed over into Orangeburg county. Riley was traced to his father's home where he had told his parents of his trouble and asked them to give him money, but they refused and he went on. The assaulted woman was not so seriously hurt as was at first supposed, but if her assailant is ever captured he will have a hard time escaping the electric chair.

There came to Manning last Monday a man who was without hands or feet and who could handle himself almost as well as the normal man. He could dress and undress himself, use a knife and fork, write a legible hand, and he can walk, run and get about as briskly as most people. His name is A. J. Murphy a typical Irishman, and as independent as a wood-sawyer. He does not beg, but prefers himself on making his living and supporting a wife and three children. He sells a pamphlet, a history of his life. His maimed condition was brought about by being in a blizzard in the Northwest in which he worked 36 hours a day for three months and his feet were frozen so they had to be amputated. His artificial feet and hands are of his own construction. He is certainly a meritorious charity.

It will be good news to learn there is more prospect for another line of railroad for this section than there has ever been heretofore. The Times editor has been invited to attend a conference of railroad promoters and he expects to leave tonight to be on hand. We understand that there has been a secret investigation of this county, the result of which is very satisfactory to the promoters, some information we have been told, and it is already requested not to make it known for the present. The Times readers can feel assured of this much that its editor will do all in his power for Clarendon and its county seat, and he has assured himself of the leading spirits in this new railroad development that if he can produce the proper argument, which we take to mean "the goods" Manning will be considered seriously.

Again we call attention to the contemplated visit of about fifty of Charleston's business men to Manning on the morning of the 28th, and would urge the people of Manning and the surrounding country to join in and give to these gentlemen a rousing welcome. The train is scheduled to arrive at Manning at 8:20 and will remain here 30 minutes; this will give them an opportunity to see the business portion of our town at least, and have a short talk with our business men on the purpose of their visit. Charleston's port and freight rates will be the topic. When the Panama canal opens up, whether American ships are required to pay tolls or not, South Carolina is deeply interested in her seaport, and all should lend a helping hand towards getting the merits of this route recognized by the government. At any rate, we urge our readers to turn out good and strong on the morning of the 28th to greet the visitors, and every owner of an automobile should be at the station to aid in bringing these gentlemen up to the court house. Metz' band will accompany the tourists.

A Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks for the sympathy expressed and the assistance rendered by our friends and neighbors, during the illness of our little burnt girl, Louise, which was burnt one month today.

Although she is not well, but we are so glad to know she is better. May God's choicest blessings rest upon you all.

MR. AND MRS. J. H. TUCKERBERRY.
Manning, S. C., April 13, 1914.

The Town Election.

The municipal election came off last Monday, considerable interest was manifested; there were no tie votes for Aldermen, no opposition to the Mayor. The vote was as follows: Mayor, A. C. Bradham, 220; Aldermen: D. Levi, 170; E. S. Ervin, 158; J. W. Rigby, 155; R. C. Wells, 191; F. P. Burgess, 239; C. M. White, 191; J. W. Johnson, 168; R. D. Clark, 79; W. P. Legg, 88. The new council will be Mayor Bradham, Aldermen: D. Levi, E. S. Ervin, J. W. Rigby, F. P. Burgess, B. A. Johnson and R. C. Wells.

While their was some interest manifested there was no excitement or unfriendliness, neither was there any vital issues.

At Rest.

The funeral services of the late Hon. E. M. Kennedy was held last Wednesday afternoon at St. James church in Sandy Grove township. There was an immense congregation, many could not get into the church, friends from Manning, Aloulu, Olania and other places were present, including Clarendon's Senator, and Hon. R. D. White of the House legislative delegation. Rev. Willie Trulluck conducted the church service in a very feeling manner, he and the deceased were personal friends, and his references to the deceased filled him with such emotion that at times it was with difficulty that he could give utterance to his words. After the church service the masons conducted the service with masonic honors. The Woodmen were also represented.

Clarendon's Loss.

Clarendon County has sustained a loss in the death of Hon. E. M. Kennedy. This man I never knew until the campaign of 1912, but during that campaign, and since that time, I have been so closely associated with him that we soon became confidential friends, a necessary relation of all representatives who would do the greatest service for their country.

Swain was one you could depend upon, when he announced his stand on a matter you could know that he was right there, not changing about as it is the case with so many people.

Mr. Kennedy made a great sacrifice for his country, his private interests had to suffer while he gave his attention to the County's affairs in Columbia, after Swain and I parted in Columbia, I saw him no more until the day of his burial when I looked upon his corpse cold in death. Swain is gone and I have lost a friend.

R. D. WHITE.

Field Day.

The Clarendon County Field Day offers every evidence of a very successful occasion. The County Superintendent is busy adding to the existing tournament to all details. The first written contest features conducted at the school building here last Saturday in which there were about forty entries.

All papers have been graded and the winners elected. For the various contests which are to be held here Friday, there are about 250 entries.

Prizes have been provided, not so much for their intrinsic value as for the honor which the winners gain.

These things should serve as a stimulus for greater efforts in the future. There will be other entries yet, especially for the athletic contests, in which entries may be admitted at any time.

A Serious Fire.

Manning was visited by fire last Saturday afternoon, which at one time bid fair to have been the most serious conflagration we have ever had; as it was, there was a considerable loss. The fire originated in a barn belonging to Thomas Nimmer, from there it spread to the stable of F. C. Thomas, and on to the residence of J. Bowman. The wind was blowing in a southeast direction, had it not been for this, the Bank of Manning and the other buildings adjoining would now be a pile of ashes.

The alarm was given about 4:30 o'clock, in a few minutes the fire engine was out and at work, but from the beginning, on account of the inflammable material, the closeness of the adjacent buildings, and the difficulty of getting where a stream of water could be placed at the right places, it was only by the hardest work the fire could be arrested, and even then, until after it had consumed the Nimmer barn, the Thomas stables and the residence of J. Bowman. The heat from the fire was so intense that several times buildings on the opposite side of the street caught; flakes of fire went flying about, one went as far as the colored school house on Church street, and it was only by the hardest work this building was saved from destruction; it was in full blaze on the roof when discovered.

The greater part of the contents of the Bowman home was saved, so was 36 hours of work from Thomas' barn, except some wagons that had not been put up, and some harness, all of the live stock and the vehicles that were on wheels were removed together with the contents of the safe.

The Thomas property was insured for $3,500, value about $6,000. The Bowman property was insured for $1,000 value about $250. Mr. Bowman moved his effects to the home of his mother-in-law Mrs. S. A. Thames.

There was never more earnest work by men than was done at this fire, and it was because of this, the fire conflagration was not greater. The fire department deserves much praise. Chief Leonard Huggins was the only person injured, and he came off with a broken thumb which is giving him considerable pain, but it did not daunt him, just as soon as he could get medical attention he was back on the job, and worked as hard as the hardest until all danger was over.

See the Great Battle Friday.

The Pastime theatre will present next Friday afternoon and evening a picture that will draw packed houses for every hour of the exhibition. It will have on canvas as if in real life. The Battle of Gettysburg a picture describing in detail this world renowned battle—one of the historic battles of the world, and which decided the fate of the confederacy. A student of history can gather more accurate information from this one presentation at The Pastime than can be gathered from books in years of study.

The story is full of romance, intrigue, and daring escapes together with the details of the thrilling times in Virginia when the confederate soldiers were preparing to cross the Potomac to invade Maryland, how the several army corps went into camp at Gettysburg, the opening of the fiery cannon, the death struggle, and the capture of Davis' Brigade of Mississippians after half of their number were left on the battlefield. The charge of the Iron Brigade, the capture of General Lee's army with his Generals. The reinforcements of the Union army, and Hood's Texans charge up the rough, steep slopes dragging cannon into position.

Pickett's Immortal Charge. This is a story that every child should know and there is no better way to have it impressed upon the mind than seeing it in life painting. We cannot do better than give the description of this film as it is written by the film historian.

It is the night of July 2, 1863. General Lee decides in council to aim his chief blow on the morning at Hancock's position on Cemetery Hill. During the night ammunition trains arrive, trenches are dug and the army is made ready for the crucial conflict of the next day. The morning of the third is spent in preparations. At one o'clock one hundred and fifteen of Lee's guns open a rapid cross fire on Cemetery Hill. A hundred Union guns reply and for two hours this artillery duel continues, shaking the very hillsides with their fearful detonations. This was to prepare the way for Pickett's charge. Pickett and his men stand ready for the word. At 3:30 P. M. the word is given. The Confederate line advances, supported on the right by Wilcox's Brigade and on the left by Pettigrew's North Carolinians, start swiftly over the undulating plains.

The line is fully three miles in length and there are 15,000 men in the desperate charge. As they move forward shot and shell from Hancock's batteries make fearful lanes in their compact ranks but by their press. As they approach nearer cannon is used with deadly effect, but on they rush, their inferno of shot and smoke and shell. One entire division is overwhelmed and captured but the others press on and on. Over the Union defenses many of them go and fall inside the breastworks they have so bravely stormed. The citizens of Gettysburg crowd to the nearby hills to watch the greatest battle of American history and the most heroic charge in the history of the world.

There stands Lee watching the flower of the South going to a glorious death. But the sacrifice is in vain. The charge has failed. Out of Pickett's entire division only one man is left to make a regiment. Out of eighteen field officers and four generals only Pickett and a lieutenant colonel were unhurt. General Pickett is heartbroken at his failure, but General Lee said "It was all my fault. It is I who have lost the battle. We must go back to Virginia."

The losses of the Army of Northern Virginia were 2,992 killed, 12,700 wounded and 5,150 missing, a total of 20,841. The losses of the Army of the Potomac were 3,070 killed, 14,497 wounded and 5,434 missing, a total of 23,003.

The last reel shows where General Lee orders a retreat, and the scenes connected therewith, also Lee surrendering at Appomattox, the return march of the hero of the South, and where he was reunited to his sweetheart after being separated by the fortunes of war.

Learning to Do One's Duty.

Make it a point to do nothing every day that you don't want to do. This is the golden rule for acquiring the habit of doing your duty without pain.—Mark Twain.

Chandler-Thames.

Mayesville, April 11.—One of the most beautiful weddings ever solemnized in the Mayesville Presbyterian church was that of Miss Minnie Drayton Chandler and John Walton Thames, April 8. For the occasion the church was decorated in smilax, pink roses and white Easter lilies. The pulpit, foreground, aisles and altar were all pink interlarded with Southern smilax and roses. Numerous candles softly glowing among the various pot plants on the altar. The skill of the tasteful decorators, Mesdames Parrot, Beall, Bradley and Mesdames F. S. Smith and George Warren. Down the middle aisle came a dainty little couple, George Cain and Miss Annie Bradley, and opened the centre gate, through which passed the bride of honor, Mrs. W. C. Parrot of Bishopville, B. S. Smith and George Warren. Down the middle aisle came a dainty little couple, George Cain and Miss Annie Bradley, and opened the centre gate, through which passed the bride of honor, Mrs. W. C. Parrot of Bishopville, B. S. Smith and George Warren. Down the middle aisle came a dainty little couple, George Cain and Miss Annie Bradley, and opened the centre gate, through which passed the bride of honor, Mrs. W. C. Parrot of Bishopville, B. S. Smith and George Warren.

The bride's beauty was enhanced by a handsome gown of train, trimmed in dust lace, pearls, ornaments and orange blossoms. The whole form was enveloped in a filmy veil fastened on the auburn hair with a wreath of orange blossoms. A large cameo brooch an heirloom of four maternal grandmothers and a diamond and pearl pendant were her only ornaments. For traveling she wore a tango coat suit, with accessories to match.

Mr. Thames, as Miss Chandler, is well known throughout this State and two of his grandmothers, Mesdames F. S. Smith and George Warren, of the Southern Presbyterian college of Red Springs, N. C. She is a great-granddaughter of Gov. John Drayton. The groom is a popular cotton buyer of this place, where they will reside for the present.

The members of the bridal party were tendered a reception at the home of the bride. Punch was served throughout the evening by Miss Annie Thomas of Silver and Mrs. M. C. Mayes. In the dining room black cream and cake was served buffet style by Mesdames W. M. Bradley, W. H. Beall, S. E. Shaw and Miss Janie Bradley. Candles softly glowing throughout the home, where the color scheme of pink and white was carried out.

Miss Hattie Mayes complimented the S. P. C. girls who attended the Chandler-Thames wedding with a tea on Tuesday evening.

MISSIONS.

MANNING AUXILIARY

What The Cross Has Won For Children By Education, Schools, Clubs.

In order that we may see the wonderful advantages which the cross of Christ has won for children, let us compare the life of the American child with that of the children of less favored lands. In scarcely any other way have the American children gained over the children of less favored lands than by education. This is particularly true of girls for in every land where Christ is not known they are considered of very little importance and in fact are not even wanted. Of course, the American child is not so hardy, so hard, but it seems every indeed when compared with that of our children.

Here, almost as soon as a child can talk he is sent off to a kindergarten and when his little mind is filled with all kinds of beautiful ideas that tend to make his life happier and fuller. He is taught to do things, and in this way he is kept busy, and consequently is happy and contented. Later on he is sent to school and he learns to read, to write, to think, to reason, to be a man of a much larger scale. He is taught to read and is thus enabled to find out for himself all the best in literature. Think what a boy or girl has missed who has never read Little Men and then Pickett and his Virginians in the van, supported on the right by Wilcox's Brigade and on the left by Pettigrew's North Carolinians, start swiftly over the undulating plains.

The line is fully three miles in length and there are 15,000 men in the desperate charge. As they move forward shot and shell from Hancock's batteries make fearful lanes in their compact ranks but by their press. As they approach nearer cannon is used with deadly effect, but on they rush, their inferno of shot and smoke and shell. One entire division is overwhelmed and captured but the others press on and on. Over the Union defenses many of them go and fall inside the breastworks they have so bravely stormed. The citizens of Gettysburg crowd to the nearby hills to watch the greatest battle of American history and the most heroic charge in the history of the world.

There stands Lee watching the flower of the South going to a glorious death. But the sacrifice is in vain. The charge has failed. Out of Pickett's entire division only one man is left to make a regiment. Out of eighteen field officers and four generals only Pickett and a lieutenant colonel were unhurt. General Pickett is heartbroken at his failure, but General Lee said "It was all my fault. It is I who have lost the battle. We must go back to Virginia."

The losses of the Army of Northern Virginia were 2,992 killed, 12,700 wounded and 5,150 missing, a total of 20,841. The losses of the Army of the Potomac were 3,070 killed, 14,497 wounded and 5,434 missing, a total of 23,003.

The last reel shows where General Lee orders a retreat, and the scenes connected therewith, also Lee surrendering at Appomattox, the return march of the hero of the South, and where he was reunited to his sweetheart after being separated by the fortunes of war.

MISSIONS.

MANNING AUXILIARY

What The Cross Has Won For Children By Education, Schools, Clubs.

In order that we may see the wonderful advantages which the cross of Christ has won for children, let us compare the life of the American child with that of the children of less favored lands. In scarcely any other way have the American children gained over the children of less favored lands than by education. This is particularly true of girls for in every land where Christ is not known they are considered of very little importance and in fact are not even wanted. Of course, the American child is not so hardy, so hard, but it seems every indeed when compared with that of our children.

Here, almost as soon as a child can talk he is sent off to a kindergarten and when his little mind is filled with all kinds of beautiful ideas that tend to make his life happier and fuller. He is taught to do things, and in this way he is kept busy, and consequently is happy and contented. Later on he is sent to school and he learns to read, to write, to think, to reason, to be a man of a much larger scale. He is taught to read and is thus enabled to find out for himself all the best in literature. Think what a boy or girl has missed who has never read Little Men and then Pickett and his Virginians in the van, supported on the right by Wilcox's Brigade and on the left by Pettigrew's North Carolinians, start swiftly over the undulating plains.

The line is fully three miles in length and there are 15,000 men in the desperate charge. As they move forward shot and shell from Hancock's batteries make fearful lanes in their compact ranks but by their press. As they approach nearer cannon is used with deadly effect, but on they rush, their inferno of shot and smoke and shell. One entire division is overwhelmed and captured but the others press on and on. Over the Union defenses many of them go and fall inside the breastworks they have so bravely stormed. The citizens of Gettysburg crowd to the nearby hills to watch the greatest battle of American history and the most heroic charge in the history of the world.

There stands Lee watching the flower of the South going to a glorious death. But the sacrifice is in vain. The charge has failed. Out of Pickett's entire division only one man is left to make a regiment. Out of eighteen field officers and four generals only Pickett and a lieutenant colonel were unhurt. General Pickett is heartbroken at his failure, but General Lee said "It was all my fault. It is I who have lost the battle. We must go back to Virginia."

The losses of the Army of Northern Virginia were 2,992 killed, 12,700 wounded and 5,150 missing, a total of 20,841. The losses of the Army of the Potomac were 3,070 killed, 14,497 wounded and 5,434 missing, a total of 23,003.

The last reel shows where General Lee orders a retreat, and the scenes connected therewith, also Lee surrendering at Appomattox, the return march of the hero of the South, and where he was reunited to his sweetheart after being separated by the fortunes of war.

MISSIONS.

MANNING AUXILIARY

What The Cross Has Won For Children By Education, Schools, Clubs.

In order that we may see the wonderful advantages which the cross of Christ has won for children, let us compare the life of the American child with that of the children of less favored lands. In scarcely any other way have the American children gained over the children of less favored lands than by education. This is particularly true of girls for in every land where Christ is not known they are considered of very little importance and in fact are not even wanted. Of course, the American child is not so hardy, so hard, but it seems every indeed when compared with that of our children.

Here, almost as soon as a child can talk he is sent off to a kindergarten and when his little mind is filled with all kinds of beautiful ideas that tend to make his life happier and fuller. He is taught to do things, and in this way he is kept busy, and consequently is happy and contented. Later on he is sent to school and he learns to read, to write, to think, to reason, to be a man of a much larger scale. He is taught to read and is thus enabled to find out for himself all the best in literature. Think what a boy or girl has missed who has never read Little Men and then Pickett and his Virginians in the van, supported on the right by Wilcox's Brigade and on the left by Pettigrew's North Carolinians, start swiftly over the undulating plains.

The line is fully three miles in length and there are 15,000 men in the desperate charge. As they move forward shot and shell from Hancock's batteries make fearful lanes in their compact ranks but by their press. As they approach nearer cannon is used with deadly effect, but on they rush, their inferno of shot and smoke and shell. One entire division is overwhelmed and captured but the others press on and on. Over the Union defenses many of them go and fall inside the breastworks they have so bravely stormed. The citizens of Gettysburg crowd to the nearby hills to watch the greatest battle of American history and the most heroic charge in the history of the world.

There stands Lee watching the flower of the South going to a glorious death. But the sacrifice is in vain. The charge has failed. Out of Pickett's entire division only one man is left to make a regiment. Out of eighteen field officers and four generals only Pickett and a lieutenant colonel were unhurt. General Pickett is heartbroken at his failure, but General Lee said "It was all my fault. It is I who have lost the battle. We must go back to Virginia."

The losses of the Army of Northern Virginia were 2,992 killed, 12,700 wounded and 5,150 missing, a total of 20,841. The losses of the Army of the Potomac were 3,070 killed, 14,497 wounded and 5,434 missing, a total of 23,003.

The last reel shows where General Lee orders a retreat, and the scenes connected therewith, also Lee surrendering at Appomattox, the return march of the hero of the South, and where he was reunited to his sweetheart after being separated by the fortunes of war.

MISSIONS.

MANNING AUXILIARY

What The Cross Has Won For Children By Education, Schools, Clubs.

In order that we may see the wonderful advantages which the cross of Christ has won for children, let us compare the life of the American child with that of the children of less favored lands. In scarcely any other way have the American children gained over the children of less favored lands than by education. This is particularly true of girls for in every land where Christ is not known they are considered of very little importance and in fact are not even wanted. Of course, the American child is not so hardy, so hard, but it seems every indeed when compared with that of our children.

Here, almost as soon as a child can talk he is sent off to a kindergarten and when his little mind is filled with all kinds of beautiful ideas that tend to make his life happier and fuller. He is taught to do things, and in this way he is kept busy, and consequently is happy and contented. Later on he is sent to school and he learns to read, to write, to think, to reason, to be a man of a much larger scale. He is taught to read and is thus enabled to find out for himself all the best in literature. Think what a boy or girl has missed who has never read Little Men and then Pickett and his Virginians in the van, supported on the right by Wilcox's Brigade and on the left by Pettigrew's North Carolinians, start swiftly over the undulating plains.

The line is fully three miles in length and there are 15,000 men in the desperate charge. As they move forward shot and shell from Hancock's batteries make fearful lanes in their compact ranks but by their press. As they approach nearer cannon is used with deadly effect, but on they rush, their inferno of shot and smoke and shell. One entire division is overwhelmed and captured but the others press on and on. Over the Union defenses many of them go and fall inside the breastworks they have so bravely stormed. The citizens of Gettysburg crowd to the nearby hills to watch the greatest battle of American history and the most heroic charge in the history of the world.

There stands Lee watching the flower of the South going to a glorious death. But the sacrifice is in vain. The charge has failed. Out of Pickett's entire division only one man is left to make a regiment. Out of eighteen field officers and four generals only Pickett and a lieutenant colonel were unhurt. General Pickett is heartbroken at his failure, but General Lee said "It was all my fault. It is I who have lost the battle. We must go back to Virginia."

The losses of the Army of Northern Virginia were 2,992 killed, 12,700 wounded and 5,150 missing, a total of 20,841. The losses of the Army of the Potomac were 3,070 killed, 14,497 wounded and 5,434 missing, a total of 23,003.

The last reel shows where General Lee orders a retreat, and the scenes connected therewith, also Lee surrendering at Appomattox, the return march of the hero of the South, and where he was reunited to his sweetheart after being separated by the fortunes of war.

MISSIONS.

MANNING AUXILIARY

What The Cross Has Won For Children By Education, Schools, Clubs.

In order that we may see the wonderful advantages which the cross of Christ has won for children, let us compare the life of the American child with that of the children of less favored lands. In scarcely any other way have the American children gained over the children of less favored lands than by education. This is particularly true of girls for in every land where Christ is not known they are considered of very little importance and in fact are not even wanted. Of course, the American child is not so hardy, so hard, but it seems every indeed when compared with that of our children.

Here, almost as soon as a child can talk he is sent off to a kindergarten and when his little mind is filled with all kinds of beautiful ideas that tend to make his life happier and fuller. He is taught to do things, and in this way he is kept busy, and consequently is happy and contented. Later on he is sent to school and he learns to read, to write, to think, to reason, to be a man of a much larger scale. He is taught to read and is thus enabled to find out for himself all the best in literature. Think what a boy or girl has missed who has never read Little Men and then Pickett and his Virginians in the van, supported on the right by Wilcox's Brigade and on the left by Pettigrew's North Carolinians, start swiftly over the undulating plains.

The line is fully three miles in length and there are 15,000 men in the desperate charge. As they move forward shot and shell from Hancock's batteries make fearful lanes in their compact ranks but by their press. As they approach nearer cannon is used with deadly effect, but on they rush, their inferno of shot and smoke and shell. One entire division is overwhelmed and captured but the others press on and on. Over the Union defenses many of them go and fall inside the breastworks they have so bravely stormed. The citizens of Gettysburg crowd to the nearby hills to watch the greatest battle of American history and the most heroic charge in the history of the world.

There stands Lee watching the flower of the South going to a glorious death. But the sacrifice is in vain. The charge has failed. Out of Pickett's entire division only one man is left to make a regiment. Out of eighteen field officers and four generals only Pickett and a lieutenant colonel were unhurt. General Pickett is heartbroken at his failure, but General Lee said "It was all my fault. It is I who have lost the battle. We must go back to Virginia."

The losses of the Army of Northern Virginia were 2,992 killed, 12,700 wounded and 5,150 missing, a total of 20,841. The losses of the Army of the Potomac were 3,070 killed, 14,497 wounded and 5,434 missing, a total of 23,003.

The last reel shows where General Lee orders a retreat, and the scenes connected therewith, also Lee surrendering at Appomattox, the return march of the hero of the South, and where he was reunited to his sweetheart after being separated by the fortunes of war.

MISSIONS.

MANNING AUXILIARY

What The Cross Has Won For Children By Education, Schools, Clubs.

In order that we may see the wonderful advantages which the cross of Christ has won for children, let us compare the life of the American child with that of the children of less favored lands. In scarcely any other way have the American children gained over the children of less favored lands than by education. This is particularly true of girls for in every land where Christ is not known they are considered of very little importance and in fact are not even wanted. Of course, the American child is not so hardy, so hard, but it seems every indeed when compared with that of our children.

Here, almost as soon as a child can talk he is sent off to a kindergarten and when his little mind is filled with all kinds of beautiful ideas that tend to make his life happier and fuller. He is taught to do things, and in this way he is kept busy, and consequently is happy and contented. Later on he is sent to school and he learns to read, to write, to think, to reason, to be a man of a much larger scale. He is taught to read and is thus enabled to find out for himself all the best in literature. Think what a boy or girl has missed who has never read Little Men and then Pickett and his Virginians in the van, supported on the right by Wilcox's Brigade and on the left by Pettigrew's North Carolinians, start swiftly over the undulating plains.

The line is fully three miles in length and there are 15,000 men in the desperate charge. As they move forward shot and shell from Hancock's batteries make fearful lanes in their compact ranks but by their press. As they approach nearer cannon is used with deadly effect, but on they rush, their inferno of shot and smoke and shell. One entire division is overwhelmed and captured but the others press on and on. Over the Union defenses many of them go and fall inside the breastworks they have so bravely stormed. The citizens of Gettysburg crowd to the nearby hills to watch the greatest battle of American history and the most heroic charge in the history of the world.

There stands Lee watching the flower of the South going to a glorious death. But the sacrifice is in vain. The charge has failed. Out of Pickett's entire division only one man is left to make a regiment. Out of eighteen field officers and four generals only Pickett and a lieutenant colonel were unhurt. General Pickett is heartbroken at his failure, but General Lee said "It was all my fault. It is I who have lost the battle. We must go back to Virginia."

The losses of the Army of Northern Virginia were 2,992 killed, 12,700 wounded and 5,150 missing, a total of 20,841. The losses of the Army of the Potomac were 3,070 killed, 14,497 wounded and 5,434 missing, a total of 23,003.

The last reel shows where General Lee orders a retreat, and the scenes connected therewith, also Lee surrendering at Appomattox, the return march of the hero of the South, and where he was reunited to his sweetheart after being separated by the fortunes of war.

Methodist Church.

Sunday School 10:15 a. m. Mr. Jos. Sprout, superintendent. Public worship 11:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. conducted by Rev. George Pierce Watson, pastor. Themes: Morning, "The Assurance of Victory." Evening, "Man's Littlest and Greatest." Prayer meeting, Thursday, 4:30 p. m. Epworth League Thursday 8 p. m. The public is cordially invited to all services.

Reliable-Foley's Honey and Tar Compound.

Just be sure that you buy Foley's Honey and Tar Compound—it is a reliable medicine for coughs, colds, croup, whooping coughs, bronchitis and influenza, grippe coughs, which are weakening to the system, also gives prompt and definite results for hoarseness tickling throat and stuffy wheezy breathing. For sale by all dealers everywhere.—Adv